

Your agent may have automatically enabled a feature called Heartbeat during setup. Heartbeat wakes your agent up every 30 minutes to check on things, even when you're not using it. This uses your API credits around the clock. To avoid unexpected costs, send your agent this message on Telegram right after setup:

Disable the heartbeat and confirm it's turned off.

You can always turn it back on later once you understand how it works. I explain heartbeat in detail in the "Understanding API Costs & Staying in Control" lesson later in this section.
